Student Ping-I Huang from the Department of Foreign Language Instruction served as a camp officer for the third time this year. He said that all the camp counselors provided guidance to students in English to help them adapt to campus life at Wenzao. Student organizations and clubs, such as Wenzao Student Union, student associations of various departments, the Root Club, the Crazy Dancing Club, Wenzao K-POP Dancing Club, the Latin Percussion Club, and the Belly Dance Club, also worked together on passionate and energetic activities to welcome the freshmen. They had created the best learning atmosphere for each freshman to fall in love with English; as a current buzzword describes, it is like love!

To verify the results of the freshmen's English learning during their participation in the camp, the "English Singing and PowerPoint Presentation" was held on the fourth evening. After learning in an English-only environment for four days, each team of students transformed from being very quiet on the first day to being able to communicate in English naturally. With guidance provided by classroom instructors and camp counselors, everyone made an all-out effort to demonstrate the results of their teamwork. Student Po-Ta Chen from the Department of International Business Administration, whose team (the 10th team) won the overall 2nd round camp spirit championship, indicated that he was very much looking forward to participating in this traditional activity after he learned that he had been accepted by Wenzao. Not only did the camp course and activity familiarize him with the campus and its surrounding environment, but they also enabled him to get to know more students from other departments. Most importantly, the English-only environment familiarized him with the way in which courses will be taught after the semester starts. He hopes that he can participate in the selection of counselors for the Falling in Love with English Camp next year so that he can pass down Wenzaorians' passion to his fellow students junior to him.

Every year Wenzao carefully plans the Falling in Love with English Camp for its freshmen to fall hopelessly in love with English. Meanwhile, this Camp is where Wenzao's freshmen meet the faculty, their follow students, and those senior to them for the first time. It is hoped that they can feel the effort Wenzao puts into brining the world to its campus in an English-only romantic atmosphere. Moreover, it is hoped that the University can bring worldview and international perspective to them during their four years of studies.
